- d. Investing in the Fund is not considered a deposit with any bank.
- e. Investors are subject to the risk of losing money when investing in the Fund.
- f. This Fund is classified as high-risk, and the risks that may lead to changes in the Fund's net assets or returns include the following:

- Capital Market Risks

Since the Fund is valued based on the market value of the securities it owns, the capital value of the Fund's Investments will remain volatile due to fluctuations in the financial market. Stock prices in the markets are subject to sharp fluctuations, which may include sudden and steep declines, potential capital loss, and a negative impact on the Fund's Net Asset Value (NAV). No guarantee or assurance can be provided for the future performance of securities, and past performance records do not reflect future results.

- Economic Risks

Capital markets in which the Fund invests are linked to the overall economic situation, which impacts on companies profitability, inflation levels, interest rates, and unemployment rates. Therefore, economic fluctuations can negatively or positively affect the Fund's performance.

- Unit Price Volatility Risk

The Unit price of the Fund is subject to fluctuations due to the volatility of the prices of the securities in which the Fund invests, which may negatively impact on the investments of the Unitholders.

- Political, Legal, Regulatory, and Legislative Risks

These risks include political instability, the issuance of new legislation or laws, or changes to existing legislation or laws, which may negatively impact the Fund's Investments.

- Interest Rate Fluctuation Risks

These are risks arising from fluctuations in the value of financial instruments due to changes in interest rates. As a result, the value of securities and company shares can be positively or negatively affected by interest rate fluctuations.

- Risks of Subscribing to IPOs and Capital Increases

Investing in IPOs and capital increases involves risks associated with limited shares. In cases where the IPO is oversubscribed and demand exceeds the supply of offered shares, a maximum limit is set for the number of shares per subscriber, and the remaining shares are allocated in limited quantities to each Subscriber. Additionally, Investors may have insufficient knowledge of the issuing company, which may have a limited performance history. Issuing companies may belong to new economic sectors, and some may be in the development stage without generating operational income in the short term, increasing the risks of subscribing to their shares. There may also be delays in listing the shares of a company that was subscribed to during the IPO period, leading to the freezing of the subscription amount, which limits the investment opportunities available to the Fund. This negatively impacts the Fund's performance and Unit price.

Potential Conflict of Interest Risks

The Fund is exposed to various conflicts of interest as the Fund Manager, its subsidiaries, directors, officers, and their companies may be directly or indirectly involved in numerous activities and businesses that may sometimes compete with the Fund. These risks arise in situations where the Fund Manager's objectivity and independence in decision-making are influenced by interests that may affect their investment decisions, potentially impacting the Fund's performance negatively. This could adversely affect the Fund's ability to achieve its investment objective, including the growth of returns and its ability to achieve a better market value for its Units.

- Reliance on Fund Manager's Personnel Risks

The success of the Fund primarily depends on the qualitative performance of its management team affiliated with the Fund Manager. The loss of services from any of the management team members (whether due to resignation or other reasons) or the inability to attract and retain additional staff can significantly impact on the Fund's operations and opportunities. This affects the Fund's ability to identify, analyze, and execute suitable investment opportunities in line with its strategies and practices, negatively impacting the Fund's performance, Net Asset Value (NAV), and Unit price.

- Reliance on Technology Risks

The Fund Manager relies on technology to manage the Fund. However, its information systems may be susceptible to breaches, attacks by viruses, or partial or complete malfunctions, which could limit the Fund Manager's ability to manage the Fund's Investments effectively. This could negatively impact on the Fund's performance, Net Asset Value (NAV), and Unit price.

- Investments Concentration Risks

The concentration of the Fund's Investments within a specific geographic area, namely the Kingdom, may expose the Fund to investment concentration risks. These risks may include the economic situation and its impact on interest rates and exchange rates, as well as government regulations, legislation, and political stability, all of which could negatively affect the Fund's Investments.

- Risks of Incorrect Predictions and Changes in Market Conditions

The future performance of the Fund heavily depends on changes in supply and demand conditions in the sectors in which the Fund invests. These conditions can be influenced by regional and local economic and political situations, increased competition, leading to a decline in the value of acquired assets and fluctuations in supply and demand. Incorrect predictions used by the Fund Manager to make investment decisions can also negatively impact on the Fund's performance.

- Risks of Compliance with Shariah Standards

The Fund's Investments must follow Shariah standards, which apply to the Fund's Investments and, to a certain extent, to its activities and investment diversification. To comply with these standards and regulations, the Fund may be required to divest from an investment or part of it if the investment or its structure violates these standards. The Fund Manager may have to sell some Investments at prices that may sometimes be unfavorable to adhere to Shariah standards, negatively impacting the Fund's Investments. Additionally, by complying with Shariah standards, the Fund may miss out on investment opportunities if the Shariah Supervisory Committee determines that a proposed investment does not comply with Shariah standards, thus preventing the Fund from considering it. Under certain conditions, these factors may negatively affect the Fund's financial performance or Investments compared to the results that could be obtained if Shariah standards were not applied to the Fund's Investments.

- Risks of Investing in Unrated Debt Instruments

In the event that there is no credit rating for the Sukuk in which the Fund Manager may wish to invest, the Fund Manager will study, analyze and evaluate the relevant Sukuk before making the investment decision, including a credit analysis of the issuer and the related securities before making the investment decision. This is considered part of the risks that may affect the Fund's performance.

- Risks of Investing in Rights Issues

Tradable Rights Issues are subject to price fluctuations due to overall market conditions or the specific circumstances of the related companies, which may impact the value of the Fund's Investments and its performance.

- Risks of Investing in Real Estate Investment Traded Fund (REITs)

Investing in units of Real Estate Investment Traded Funds (REITs) involves exposure to the risk of changes in the value of the real estate assets invested in by those funds, as well as the price volatility of those units in the market. This may impact the value of the Fund's Investments and its performance.

- Financing Risks

In general, financing can lead to greater fluctuations in the Fund's Net Asset Value (NAV) or result in the Fund incurring losses greater than its investment. The Fund may also face delays in repaying borrowed amounts on time due to reasons beyond the Fund Manager's control, which could force the Fund Manager to sell some of its investments. This would negatively impact the Fund Assets and, consequently, the Unit prices. Financing also entails a higher degree of risk, increasing the Fund and its Investments' exposure to factors such as rising debt costs and economic downturns, which can adversely affect the Fund's net assets.

- Risks of Diminishing Allocation Ratio

As multiple licensed companies and investment funds are invited to participate in Initial Public Offerings (IPOs), there is a possibility of a decrease in the allocation ratio due to an increased number of participating entities. This could potentially lead to missed investment opportunities that may impact the Fund's performance and Unit price.

- The Risks of Securities being Delayed in Their Listing After Subscription

In the case of the Fund subscribing to IPOs, these subscriptions are tied to their scheduled listing on the stock market. Therefore, any delay in listing represents a risk that could affect the Fund's Investments and performance.

- Risks of Non-Distribution or Reduced Distributions

The issuer of the security may reduce or suspend its distributions due to unforeseen underlying issues, payments, or unexpected obligations, impacting the Fund's returns with reduced or nonexistent distributions.

- The Risks of Callability

Some securities may include a call option, allowing the issuer to redeem them before their maturity date (such as Sukuk). This option exposes the Fund to reinvestment risks, as the Fund may not find a similar investment with comparable returns.

- Issuer Related Risks

The performance of the issuer of the securities may change over time due to changes in its management, financial conditions, demand for its products or services, leading to a decrease in the value of its shares. This can negatively impact the Fund's performance, Net Asset Value (NAV), and Unit price.

- Risks of Credit Rating Decline

In case of a credit rating decline for the issuer of any security, the Fund Manager may be compelled to divest from it. This exposes the financial instrument to sharp fluctuations, potentially impacting the Unit value within the Fund negatively.

- Market Risks and Selection Risks

Market risks refer to the potential decline in the value of one or more markets in which the Fund invests, including the possibility of sharp and unexpected market downturns. Selection risks, on the other hand, involve the possibility that the performance of securities chosen by the Fund may be lower than the overall market performance, relevant benchmarks, or securities chosen by other Funds with similar investment objectives and strategies. In both cases, the Fund and Unitholders are exposed to potential losses due to the realization of these risks.

- Risks of Investing in Parallel Markets

Investing in Shares of companies listed on the Parallel Market carries several risks. These companies often have lower liquidity compared to those listed on the Main Market. Participation in the Parallel Market is restricted to a specific category of Investors, limiting investment opportunities compared to the Main Market. Additionally, the volatility ratio for companies in the Parallel Market tends to be higher than in the Main Market. The Fund's Investments may be negatively impacted due to these risks, including the possibility of sudden price declines and potential loss of capital or part thereof. Consequently, the Fund Unit price may also be adversely affected by such declines or volatility. Companies listed on the Parallel Market may be newly established or have a short operational history, with limited human and financial resources compared to those on the Main Market. Moreover, disclosure and listing requirements for companies on the Parallel Market are relatively less stringent compared to those on the Main Market.

In addition to the risks associated with limited disclosure and due diligence, governance requirements for companies listed on the Parallel Market are relatively lower compared to those listed on the Main Market. Moreover, the Parallel Market is considered newly established, making investment in emerging markets, especially, subject to multiple risks such as delays in transaction settlement and securities registration and custody. Additionally, the market capitalization of securities listed on the Parallel Market may be relatively limited compared to the Main Market, thereby exposing the Fund Assets and Investments to higher price volatility and lower liquidity compared to the Main Market, potentially adversely affecting the Fund's performance and Unit price.

- Credit Risks

Either a trading party or the issuing entity of any security, whether a sovereign entity or a corporation, may be unable or unwilling to meet its financial obligations in a timely or absolute manner, thereby affecting the expected income of the Fund and causing a decline in Unit prices.

- Risks of Controlling a Large Percentage of the Fund Assets

Some Investors in the Fund may own a large percentage of its Assets, which could affect the Fund's Investment distribution if there is a withdrawal by one or a group of these controlling Investors. This could impact the Fund's returns.

- Risks of Insufficient Disclosure in Prospectuses

Investment decisions are based on information disclosed in the prospectuses for nominated companies. These prospectuses may contain inaccurate information or omit essential details necessary for investment decisions. Given the significant reliance on disclosed information in making investment decisions, the risks associated with such decisions persist if prospectuses include inaccurate information or fail to mention critical details, potentially negatively impacting the Fund's performance and Unit price.

- Liquidity Risks

The Fund Manager may not be able to meet all redemption requests if the total value of these requests reaches 10% or more of the Net Asset Value (NAV) of the Fund, or if some Investments cannot be liquidated due to weak or nonexistent market trading.

- Non-Guarantee of Investment Returns

There is no guarantee that the Fund will achieve returns for its Investors or that returns will be proportional to the risks of investing in the Fund and the nature of the transactions described in these Terms and Conditions. The Unit value may decline, and Investors may lose some or all of the capital they invested in the Fund. There is no guarantee that the expected or targeted returns of the Fund will be realized. All figures and statistics provided in these Terms and Conditions are for illustrative purposes only and do not represent profit expectations. Actual returns may vary and can differ from the illustrative figures and statistics provided in these Terms and Conditions.

- Fund Management Risks

The Fund relies on the diligence and skill of the Fund Manager to achieve the Fund's investment objective and manage all aspects and Assets of the Fund. The performance of the Fund Manager cannot be guaranteed. Thus, the success of the Fund heavily depends on the personal efforts and practical experience of the individuals working for the Fund Manager who exclusively manages the Fund. The continued presence of all individuals working for the Fund Manager throughout the Fund's duration cannot be assured. The loss of any or all of these key personnel or any inability to retain them may negatively impact the Fund's performance.

- Risks of Dealing with a Third Party

The Fund may engage in transactions with a third party that may not be able to fulfill its contractual obligations under these transactions due to changes in financial conditions, management, demand, products, or services. This may result in non-compliance with agreed commitments or contracts, thereby negatively impacting the Net Asset Value (NAV) of the Fund and Unit price.

- Sovereign and Political Risks

The Fund's value and Investments can be negatively affected by geopolitical developments, social instability, changes in government policies, and other political and economic developments, all of which can have a detrimental impact on the performance of the Fund Assets and Unitholder returns.

- Natural Disaster Risks

These risks include volcanoes, earthquakes, epidemics, hurricanes, floods, and any natural phenomenon beyond human control that can cause extensive damage to property and assets. They adversely affect various economic and investment sectors, thereby negatively impacting the performance of the Fund Assets and Unitholder returns.

- Risks of Changes in Market Activity Levels in the Invested Markets

General market movements in financial markets, prevailing and expected economic conditions, profit rates, financing costs, Investor sentiment, and overall economic conditions can all negatively impact the value of invested assets. Liquidity shortages can also negatively affect the market value of Units. Therefore, investing in the Fund is only suitable for Investors capable of bearing the associated risks.

- Inflation Risks

As fixed-income securities, Sukuk are exposed to inflation risks, where inflation rates may rise while the yields of the underlying Sukuk remain stable without relative increases. If inflation rises above the percentage yield of the underlying Sukuk, the Fund may incur losses on its Investments, negatively affecting Unitholder returns.

- Risks of Collecting Zakat from Investors in Investment Funds

The Zakat Authority in the Kingdom has established rules for the collection of Zakat from Investors in investment Funds, as announced by the Zakat Authority according to Minister of Finance Decision No. (29791) dated 09/05/1444H. According to this decision, investment Funds established according to the regulations of the Authority before the enforcement of this decision must register with the Zakat Authority for Zakat purposes before the end of their fiscal year at the time of the decision's enforcement. Investment Funds, including those structured as special purpose entities licensed by the Authority, are not subject to Zakat collection from Investors under the rules specified, provided they do not engage in economic activities or investment activities outside those specified in their foundational regulations or specific Terms and Conditions. This decision applies to fiscal years beginning on or after 01/01/2023G. Given the recent implementation of the rules for Zakat collection from Investors in investment Funds, the exact impact on the Fund and consequently its financial position and operations is not fully clear. Understanding the nature and application of these Zakat rules is crucial, as non-compliance with any obligations imposed by related regulations may result in financial penalties and other regulatory sanctions. Investors are advised to seek advice regarding their Zakat obligations related to their Investments in the Fund.

- Legal and Regulatory Risks

The information provided in these Terms and Conditions is based on current and declared legislation as of the date of these Terms and Conditions. Legal and regulatory changes may occur in the investment environment within or outside the Kingdom, or other changes during the Fund's duration, which could adversely affect the Fund or its Investments, leading the Fund to be subject to legal claims necessitating recourse to competent courts for compensation. Legal proceedings and enforcement actions can be lengthy, potentially exposing the Fund to cumulative losses until it receives adequate compensation, thereby impacting the Fund's performance and Unitholders' income.

- Environmental, Social, and Governance (ESG) Risks, Particularly Climate Risks

Environmental, social, and governance (ESG) risks refer to the three factors used to measure the sustainability and societal impact of an investment. Environmental, social, and governance (ESG) criteria can help better assess the future financial performance of companies (returns and risks). Environmental issues related to properties, such as hazardous material use, can negatively impact their value. As part of environmental, social, and governance (ESG) risks, climate risks can increase exposure to losses, making assets less liquid, generating lower income, or subjecting them to environmental regulation. Additionally, climate change may lead to higher insurance costs.

Integrating environmental, social, and governance (ESG) risks into the investment decision-making process may lead to excluding profitable Investments from the Fund's portfolio and could also prompt the Fund to sell Investments that have been performing well. Assessing environmental, social, and governance (ESG) risks is somewhat subjective, and there is no guarantee that all Investments made by the Fund will align with the interests or values of any specific Investor. Environmental, social, and governance (ESG) risks can manifest in various ways, such as through environmental, social, or governance-related events or circumstances that significantly impact the value of one or multiple Investments, thereby negatively affecting the Fund's returns. Environmental, social, and governance (ESG) risks can manifest in various forms, including but not limited to:

- Non-compliance with environmental, social, or governance standards can damage reputation, leading to reduced demand for products and services, or loss of business opportunities for a company or industrial group. It can also result in changes to sector regulations, rules, or laws, potentially leading to fines, penalties, or changes in consumer behavior that impact a company or the entire sector's growth and development prospects.
- Changes in regulations or laws may lead to increased demand, thereby causing unnecessary increases in the stock prices of companies perceived to meet high environmental, social, and governance standards. The prices of these financial assets may become more volatile if market participants' perceptions regarding companies' adherence to environmental, social, and governance standards change.
- Changes in regulations or laws may incentivize companies to provide misleading information about their environmental, social, or governance standards or activities.
- Risks of Litigation with Third Parties

The Fund may face lawsuits brought by third parties due to its activities, potentially leading to legal proceedings. This could result in expenses for defense and litigation against claims, as well as settlements or judgments that could reduce the Fund Assets. Those appointed by the Fund Manager to handle such matters may receive compensation from the Fund, adversely affecting its performance, Net Asset Value (NAV), and Unit price.

- Risks of Value-Added Tax, Income Tax, Withholding Tax, Capital Gains Tax, and Any Other Tax

As of the date of these Terms and Conditions, no investment in the Fund is subject to income tax, withholding tax, capital gains tax, or any other tax. However, the imposition of Value-Added Tax (VAT) was officially decided in the Kingdom in January 2018. It is not expected that the investment in the Fund will be subject to Value-Added Tax (VAT), but the Fund may be required to pay Value-Added Tax (VAT) on the acquisition or disposal of certain Fund assets, as well as the amounts due for services provided to the Fund. In all cases, Investors should seek advice regarding the impact of Value-Added Tax (VAT) on their Investments in the Fund. If Value-Added Tax (VAT) is applied to the investment in the Fund and/or income tax and withholding tax and/or capital gains tax and/or any other tax, it will negatively affect the value of the Units in the Fund.

It is expected that the Fund Manager and service providers to the Fund will be subject to Value-Added Tax (VAT), and as a result, the payments due to the Fund Manager and/or service providers will be adjusted to take Value-Added Tax (VAT) into consideration. The Value-Added Tax (VAT) imposed on services may affect the Units and Assets of the Fund.

- Withholding Tax Risks

Under Saudi tax regulations, any payment made by a resident person (whether or not they are obligated to pay taxes) to a non-resident person is subject to tax according to the regulations issued by the Zakat Authority regarding withholding taxes. Therefore, any payment of distributions by an investment Fund to a non-resident shareholder is subject to withholding tax at a rate determined by the relevant authorities. According to current practices, investment Funds are not required to make any tax withholdings (except for withholding tax) on payments made from the Fund to Unitholders. Consequently, any withholding tax that may be due on distributions from the Fund (if any) could reduce the returns from any investment in the Fund. Potential Investors should consult their tax advisors regarding the tax implications of investing in, holding, and disposing of Units.

- Trading Suspension Risks

The suspension of trading in the entire market or a group of securities can lead to risks associated with unavailability and loss of numerous investment opportunities due to the inability to sell or buy. This can negatively affect the Fund's Investments and the Unit price.

- Risks Arising from the Restrictions Imposed on the Fund's Investments as stipulated in the Sharia Standards

The restrictions on investment as stipulated in Sharia standards (for example, the inability to invest in certain sectors and activities) may result in the Fund performing less favorably compared to Funds with similar investment objectives but not subject to Sharia standards and/or the responsible investment guidelines of the Fund or any underlying investment Funds.

- Future Data Risks

These Terms and Conditions may contain forward-looking statements regarding future events or the future performance of the Fund. In some cases, future data risks can be identified by terms such as "expects", "believes", "continues", "estimates", "anticipates", "intends", "may", "might", "plans", "should", "will", or the negative of these terms or other similar expressions. These statements are only predictions. Actual events or results may differ materially. When evaluating these statements, Investors should specifically consider various factors including the risks mentioned in this section "Key Risks of Investing in the Fund", as these factors could cause actual events or results to differ materially from those in the forward-looking statements. The Fund Manager has no obligation to update any forward-looking statements after the date of these Terms and Conditions to align them with actual results or changes in expectations.

The risks mentioned in paragraph (f) above do not provide a complete and comprehensive explanation or summary of all the risk factors involved in investing in the Fund's Units. It is essential that all potential Investors seek independent advice from their professional advisors.

There is no guarantee that the Fund Manager can provide regarding the achievement of the investment objectives stated in these Terms and Conditions. Subscribers should consider the risk factors mentioned above before investing in the Fund, as they could potentially affect the Net Asset Value (NAV) of the Fund.

The Fund Manager or any of their affiliates is not liable for any financial loss to the Fund unless it results from deliberate actions by the Fund Manager. The Fund Manager is responsible to the Unitholders for losses of the Fund caused by fraud, gross negligence, misconduct, or deliberate dereliction of duty.

All Subscribers interested in investing should make their decision independently or consult with their professional advisors regarding the legal, financial, and tax risks associated with this Fund. The risks mentioned above do not constitute a summary of all the risks involved in investing in the Fund, but they do represent the principal risks that the Fund may face.

5. Risk Assessment Mechanism

The Fund Manager acknowledges the existence of an internal mechanism for assessing the risks associated with the Fund Assets.

6. Targeted Class for Investing in the Fund

The Fund targets Investors who are interested in investing in a high-risk fund with the aim of distributing regular monthly returns by investing in multiple asset classes that are compatible with the Sharia standards approved by the Fund's Sharia Supervisory Committee as outlined in paragraph (b) of Article (3) of these Terms and Conditions, which entails high risks.

7. Investment Restrictions/Limitations

The Fund Manager, during its management of the Fund, is committed to adhering to the restrictions and limits imposed by the Investment Funds Regulations, these Terms and Conditions, and in compliance with Sharia standards.

8. Currency

The Fund's currency is the Saudi Riyal only, and the Fund will not accept any funds in any currency other than the Saudi Riyal. Subscriptions to the Fund are accepted in Saudi Riyal.

Any and all interest income received by the Fund will be classified as prohibited income for purification purposes.

G. Procedures for Compliance with Sharia Standards

The Shariah Advisors shall be responsible for approving the legal structure and documentation of the Fund and all individual Funds from the Shariah aspect, including in particular the Shariah investment criteria and standards, and shall issue a Shariah opinion to confirm this approval once they are satisfied with compliance with the requirements of the Shariah criteria and standards. The Shariah Advisors shall also provide ad hoc Shariah guidance, waivers (at their discretion) or Shariah opinions when requested by the Shariah Controller on any questions relating to compliance with the Shariah criteria and standards of the Fund or any of its transactions.

The Shariah Controller monitors the transactions of each Fund and calculates the amount of prohibited income in respect of each Fund on a quarterly basis. If the Shariah Controller believes that any such transaction is not or may not be in compliance with the Shariah investment standards, the Shariah Controller may request general Shariah standards or a Shariah opinion on the matter from the Shariah advisors. If necessary, the Shariah Controller will be responsible for notifying the relevant service providers, in particular the Shariah Auditor, the Fund Operator and the relevant Investment Manager, of any Shariah standards or opinions and ensuring that any subsequent corrective actions are taken.

The Shariah Auditor will be responsible for auditing the Shariah Controller's monitoring process on an annual basis.

The Shariah Auditor will then report its findings to the Shariah Controller on a quarterly basis. The purpose of the quarterly Shariah audit report shall be to ensure that the Fund transactions comply with the relevant Shariah investment standards, suggest any necessary corrective action and confirm whether the corrective actions suggested in such previous reports have been implemented. Once agreed with the Shariah Controller, the Shariah audit reports are sent by the Shariah Auditor to the Shariah Advisors on a quarterly basis for approval.

H. Warning on the Effects of the Shariah Standards

Investment restrictions as set forth in the Shariah standards (for example, the inability to invest in interest-bearing investment securities) may result in any Fund performing less well than Funds with a similar investment objective but not subject to Shariah standards for investment or similar standards. In particular, the Investment Manager will receive instructions from Shariah Advisors through the Company or the Management Company, as set forth in the Investment Management Agreement. In accordance with these instructions issued by the Shariah Advisors, the Investment Manager will not be permitted, for example, to invest in securities or other financial instruments that, in the opinion of the Shariah Advisors, are not or no longer in compliance with the Shariah standards for investment. Similarly, cash balances held by the Company from time to time may be deposited on terms that do not provide any interest income on the amount deposited for the benefit of any Fund.
